

I would only support the "recording" requirement if the FCC tied the statute of limitations for filing complaints to the same time frame as the required retention period. Otherwise the requirement will not serve any party.